INTRODUCTION

Do you know the ruins of Mohenjo-Daro? This ancient city was discovered in 1902 by the British archaeologist John Marshall in Pakistan. Thousands of buried corpses were discovered there, victims of sudden death. Radiation exceeding 50 times what was allowed and several crystallized stones were detected in the ruins.

The Indian researcher David Davenport confirmed that the tests carried out on the corpses showed symptoms of radiation poisoning, at a dose 50 times higher than tolerated by the human body. The corpses were found scattered around the city with strange poses such as that of three members of the same family who appeared facing down holding hands or two individuals embracing in the middle of the street.

The shape and poses in which the skeletons were found would indicate that death fell on them, apparently in full flight from the place. Experts say that everything pointed to the city being the epicenter of a large explosion, where almost all the structures in the city were razed, the rocks melted and the ground crystallized. A kind of crystallized black stone was also found, which after being analyzed, proved to be nothing more and nothing less than clay vases burned to what would be more than 1600 degrees Celsius of temperature, which could only have been generated with a high radioactive level.

And this is not the only radioactive ruined city in Pakistan, in the north of this country the city of Harappa was discovered that exhibits exactly the same radioactive characteristics.

In India we also find similar evidence. In the area between the Rajmahal Mountains and the Ganges River, there are several areas with large layers of ash and a presence of radiation above the usual average. To the west of the city of Jodhpur, an area of about five square kilometers covered in radioactive ash was also discovered and according to locals, it is the cause of a large number of cancer and congenital malformations detected in its vicinity.

If the first nuclear bomb was created on our planet by Robert Oppenheimer in 1945... How can it be that cities dating back more than 5000 years old according to our science, can show signs of a full-blown nuclear attack?

But we find even more evidence of this type in different parts of the planet.

An immense expanse of sand was also discovered in the African desert, which was crystallized in a surprising green color. The researchers determined that this could be achieved with extremely high and deadly temperature levels. 50 years after the discovery, the first nuclear bomb was detonated in New Mexico, creating the same green crystallization found 50 years earlier on the African continent.

And we not only find radioactive evidence all over the world but also documented in ancient texts. The great epic of ancient India, Mahabharata, recounts in concrete passages a chaos and destruction that seem to describe, with great precision and detail, the effects and aftermath of a nuclear war.

Massive explosions as bright as a thousand suns are depicted with bodies scorched to the point of being unrecognizable. It further explains that those who survived the tragedy lost their hair and nails, while food supplies became contaminated. But it also relates in all kinds of detail the existence of flying ships and rockets or missiles capable of reaching long distances. Powerful destructive weapons according to ancient texts used by the gods in battles.

All this coincides with what we know today as the effects produced by radiation poisoning and radioactive contamination that results in an atomic explosion.

Can the Mahabharata really be describing what a nuclear war was like in the past?

CRISTINA: Hello friends, welcome to Pleiadian Knowledge, I'm Cristina and today we bring you the fifth video in the Orion Wars series. If you have not seen the previous 4, please look at them before continuing to understand better what Yázhí Swarúu explains here. You can find these videos in a playlist with the name of THE WARS OF ORION - HIDDEN HISTORY OF THE EARTH but we will also leave the links in the description of this video.

In today's video we bring you a conversation with Yázhí where she explains to us how the Adamic race was liberated from the Garden of Eden, but also the consequences that this entails later. I leave you now with the conversation we had with her and will see you at the end of the video.

CONVERSATION WITH YÁZHÍ SWARÚU TASHERIT

Cristina: How did this first ancient battle start? The one that caused the exit from the Garden of Eden.

Yázhí Swarúu: It originated from the help that the "Eve's" (Lemuria) decided to give to the new Adamic race, which were preparing or had the Reptile inhabitants of Atlantis.

When the Eves entered the areas where they were kept in Turkey. And they liberated them, thus causing a battle or mass departure from there, and they fled to Asia and Europe mainly, but over time they were diluted into towns all over the world, coexisting with Atlantis, which in itself was very angry.

This also caused the famous wars of Tiamat, I would not say directly, but it's part of the chaotic social context of the moment that helped this outcome, with the subsequent flood, due to the destruction of the Water Planet: Tiamat.

Here many "erudite" people say that the controlling gods caused the flood to "reset" humanity. But they say they provoked, as if it were a magical act. This is a traditional position or idea of gods, that what they think and dictate happens. But reality is complex, with reasons, action-reaction, consequences. And much of this escapes human understanding, although from another angle it's normal and documented as being what happened.

Estel.la: So, the Eves were also slaves by Atlantis, in Eden, who were provided with the information / knowledge by the Taygeteans. Who then also liberated the Adams. Is that right?

Yázhí Swarúu: Yes. Only the Eves (which include men and women, same as the Adams) rebelled and escaped Atlantis (Place of contention: Eden) because the controllers could not suppress their intellect, memories, and all that. They knew they were Free.

So the Eves were receptive to the arrival of Taygeta (Reason for the base in Lemuria) who continued to empower them to the extent that they made their "rescue mission" to free the rest of their kin, the Adams, who were asleep and with more repression. I clarify again that the Eves, as a race logically had men and women...

It's worth saying something interesting here, the Eves as a Lemurian society were Holographic Matriarchy, as good Lyrian beings. And it was made very clear from Taygeta's records that it was the women who were most receptive to that kind of information and support from another Lyrian-based star race, Taygeta. But although 90% of this was Taygeta, there were also cooperation and bases of Solatians and Engans.

Estel.la: When you say that this first battle was developed by the help of the Eves liberating the Adamic race, how exactly did this develop? Which were the steps? How did they manage to infiltrate?

Yázhí Swarúu: About how, what I understand is that they sneaked into guarded areas, or poorly guarded borders considered human farms, Cappadocia Turkey area, among other places.

In the case of Atlantis, the bases or facilities today in the Bermuda area: they moved in the form of guerrilla warfare, or like ninjas, opening laboratories and letting people out of there.

In the Cappadocia area it was a more strategic infiltration, where the Eves entered and formed ties and cooperation agreements, as well as escape routes for them, this after explaining to them the situation in which they lived. I enclose the latter, because it implicates that the Adams heard what the Eves had to say.

As has been explained above, the Eves with knowledge (Snakes-DNA- women) entered the garden of Eden to corrupt Adam. Noting that they were both naked, symbolizing that they did not have what to defend themselves with, that is to say, being naked represents the lack of knowledge.

Estel.la: So they coexisted for a while after escaping?

Yázhí Swarúu: Yes, in themselves the Eves and the Adams were mixed to create a race, the modern race. Speaking from the point of view of accepted history, it would be Homo Sapiens. Displacing the indigenous population that was already on Earth, a proto-Lyrian species, the Neanderthal. They were inhabiting Europe, especially in the East, Asia and Africa. The most inhabited place by Neanderthals was in the Bucegi area of Romania, near Turkey, and the movement of Homo Sapiens went directly there.

Neanderthals were not brainless and primitive as they are painted. Rather, they were mentally advanced beings with a lot of connection towards the spiritual and nature. A pre-industrial society, yes, but emotionally connected with Earth, and at peace with her and among the other Neanderthal tribes, since they had a clear empathic capacity, far above humans.

Estel.la: And after fleeing, did they also coexist with the other races of Atlantis?

Cristina: Yes, what happened during that time?

Yázhí Swarúu: No, I clearly understand that they did not coexist, but hid and isolated themselves from everything that had to do with Atlantis. They dispersed throughout most of the world, in the form of nomads, walking through large wooded areas and large plains, today under the waters of the oceans and seas.

At the same time while many dispersed and formed their tribes, colonies or small population centers, including small civilizations, a great fight between the more advanced Lemurians against Atlantis continued. Which was largely triggered by the recent and not so recent rescue operations where they freed their slaves.

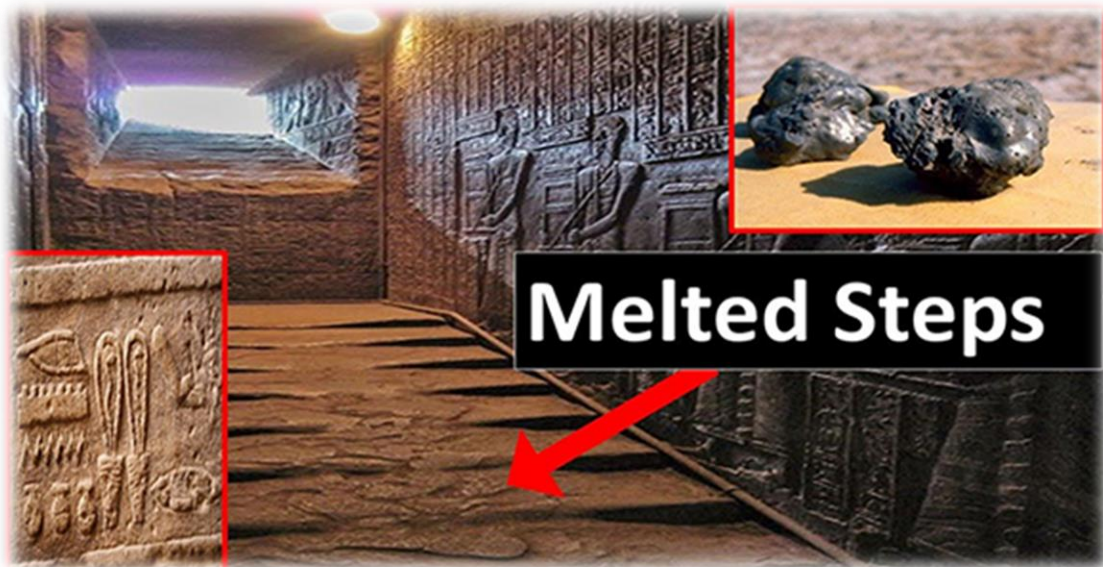

Keep in mind that these events took several centuries to unfold. And in gaining energy, or in reaching into space, since there were interstellar races supporting both sides. The mostly Reptilians and allies backing Atlantis and the Mostly Lyrians backing Lemuria. Ending in a highly technological war in all this area of this solar system, which explains the traces of radiation and destroyed areas on Earth, that even today are connected with nuclear explosions, as the only explanation.

There are clear areas in India today that still have radiation by bombs from thousands of years ago, there are still traces of explosions. Evidence of ancient nuclear explosions. They are not easy to hide.

Dated not at 600 BC, more like 12,500 BC.

This is also connected to the ancient stories in the Bible in the Old Testament about Sodom and Gomorrah, where if one looked back, they would become statues of salt. And that is, more evidence of nuclear explosions.

I do not have full corroboration on the veracity of this image.

Cristina: How did these nuclear battles unfold? What technology was used?

Yázhí Swarúu: In a very traditional way compared to today. It is known that flying artifacts were used, SPACESHIPS that were previously called Vimanas.

For me they are only ships, like those of today, no mystery. Where they faced each other in space battles, resulting in the now well known destruction of Tiamat and the devastation of the surface of Mars.

Cristina: So was it nuclear bombs what they used? Or something else?

Yázhí Swarúu: Yes, nuclear bombs were used, there is no doubt. The traces indicate it, also the historical records outside Earth.

Cristina: Did Lemuria also use nuclear energy for their defense?

Yázhí Swarúu: More than anything what their foreign allies provided them. This is how it was documented. The problem that I personally see with this, is that there were already another class of non-ionizing, non-radioactive weapons. So why use those? Nuclear power weapons are low-tech, dangerous enough to be useless.

Just a "naval" plasma cannon, like the ones the Toлека has in turrets, when fired at a base on the Earth's surface or wherever, the beam of plasma energy enters several meters, sometimes between 50 and 100 meters below the crust, and then concentrates there by touching a rocky layer that offers more resistance, then the accumulated energy expands in fractions of a second, which is a lot, and explodes out, lifting the target, the base or whatever is on the surface, completely annihilating structures, buildings and everything that is there, making it fly up to thousands of meters in the air between rock, land and debris. Leaving a huge crater. And it is not nuclear. It is an energy weapon.

Cristina: Thank you very much for the explanation. And what races took part in this first battle?

Yázhí Swarúu: The exact same races of the Federation present around Earth right now. Again the Andromedans just watching and giving their opinion but without getting into trouble. For their Karma, always their Karma.

And the races that were most involved were the Taygeteans, the Engan and the Arcturians, and on the other side, the Reptiles and Maitre. And between them they threw everything.

CRISTINA SPEAKS:

As you can see, these historical records of nuclear energy remnants now make a little more sense. Much of our history is there, it just takes a little digging, and despite the efforts to hide it there are things like nuclear waste, that there is no carpet that big to put them under.

Before ending the video, I would also like to share with you a brief conversation that we also had with Yazhi about the god Shiva, since we had heard that he was Andromedan and that he was related in this first battle. But since we know that the Andromedans are characterized by not being a warrior race, we did not understand very well who he was or what was happening with Shiva.

So, I leave you with these questions and answers from Yazhi. Here I say goodbye, thank you very much for being there and listening, and will see you in the next videos.

CONVERSATION WITH YÁZHI SWARÚ TASHERIT

Estel.la: God Shiva, he was Andomedan right? Does he correspond to those times?

Yázhí Swarú: Yes, but difficult to know well, what happens is that everything that is prior to 12.500 is difficult to calculate in time.

I don't remember when Shiva is mentioned on Earth, but here what I have seen goes from before Tiamat, to about 650 BC, around the time of Buddha. I can't pinpoint when. There is no data. But he is associated with Vimanas and the fight.

However, there are things about Shiva that do not "fit" me personally. For example his warrior spirit and strong nature, are not very Andromedan. And they always paint him with hair and the Andromedans have no hair. I would rather say that it would resemble a Pleiadian Celean. But that is only my opinion.

All this now by memory... Shiva is associated with facing the hidden, destroyer of worlds, but in a positive sense. In other words, it dissolves the lie, exposes reality no matter how strong it may be. Revealer of the unconscious. Associated with the planet Pluto.

So it is not known if he participated in that battle before the destruction of Tiamat, or not. And if he did participate, he would not be Andromedan.

Cristina: So you think it is possible that he was not Andromedan?

Yázhí Swarúu: The records here say he was Andromedan. But I have a tendency to question everything. He had no Andromedan personality.

Cristina: I understand. Sure, neither personality nor physical appearance.

Yázhí Swarúu: Yes, the only thing that fits as Andromedan, is his skin color and the fact that the area of India had a lot of Andromedan influence.

According to the entire history of Shiva, he did participate in wars. However, while Tiamat's was the strongest and most remembered, there were many other wars with spaceships and all.

The most recent is that of 1561 in Germany.

It is only very recent, from 1880 to nowadays, that the idea of "UFOs" and "Aliens" began to be erased from the culture, and even more accentuated since the 1930s, when the Nazis began to experiment with anti-gravitational technology. So they were interested in hiding as best as possible the existence of these "Wunderwaffen" or top secret weapons.
